Q. If Adam and Eve didn't eat the fruit, would Jesus still die on the cross?

No. Jesus' death was because of our sin. Therefore, had sin never entered the world, Jesus would not have had to die. This question, however, can only be answered in a "theoretical" way since Adam, Eve, and all of us did sin.

But this question brings up another more interesting question. If Adam and Eve (and all us who descended from them) never sinned, would God the Son have become human? Would He have taken on human flesh through the Incarnation by the Virgin Mary?

Though the death of Jesus was on account of our sin, His Incarnation (becoming human) was not solely so that He could die for our sin. The Catechism of the Catholic Church explains that one of the primary reasons for His Incarnation was "in order to save us by reconciling us with God," but it also identifies three other reasons: "so that thus we might know God's love" "to be our model of holiness"; and "to make us 'partakers of the divine nature'" (See CCC #457-460).

Therefore, it is speculated by some that even if there was no sin, God would have become flesh so as to fulfill these other effects of the Incarnation. Perhaps that's a bit deep and is only speculation, but it's beautiful to reflect upon nonetheless!

Once a priest retires he is responsible for his own personal expenses: medical, housing, car, clothing and food. All funds contributed between October 1, 2020 and December 31, 2020 help reduce the amount the parish contributes to the fund. A gift of cash or check can be sent to Perpetuate The Gift, PO Box 954, Toledo, OH 43697 or placed in the parish collection.

A Family Perspective

Jesus was exasperated when he scolded: “Why do you put me to the test?” It is natural for children to test parents; this is how they learn and how we teach limits, rules and values. Be like Jesus in today’s gospel; he was firm, honest and direct.

Religious Education/CCD

The classes will begin in a few weeks. They include K through 8th grade and High School Youth Group. Registration includes current students as well as all new students. The registration forms are on the table in the back of church. Please fill them out and return in envelope provided and place in basket next to forms. The schedule for 2020-2021 is being prepared by catechists and will be available soon.
